

Cross-ownership of media is a bad idea. A press has to be independent to be free, and consolidation of ownership will limit the scope of news available. In addition, broadcast journalism focuses on brief rather than in-depth coverage, and print journalism will be short-changed if it is directed by broadcast journalists.

I am thoroughly opposed to repealing the rules regulating cross-ownership.